The Electro-Magnetic Head-light.

A Trial of a Wonderful Invention—The Power of Blue Glass Electricity—Dawn of a New Era in Railroad.

[From the Silver State, Mich. St.]

Since the time when Morse startled the civilized world by demonstrating the practicability of his system of telegraphy, now so thoroughly in operation throughout the universe, electricity has been gradually and surely making progress; and to-day it is regarded as one of the most powerful agents yet discovered by man to execute the mandates of his will. Its utility has been manifested in numerous ways, the latest of which is that of curing the diseases incident to frail mortality—more generally known as the "blue glass remedy." Eminent scientists have carefully studied the mysteries of this phenomenon and unitedly agree that the real cause of the miraculous cures effected is naught but electricity created by action of the colored glass upon the rays of light cast through it.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION

Jack Sovan, an engineer on the Humboldt Division, C. P. R. R., running hence to Carlin, upon reading the above decision concerning the "blue glass" discovery thought it could be made of inestimable value to railroad companies. He pondered over the idea for several weeks and finally perfected a locomotive headlight, which is destined to mark a new era in the history of railroading and place the name of its inventor in the front rank of men revered by the world for their genius. The sample one is, in shape, similar to the lamps hitherto used on American railroads, but has a blue glass front, four inches thick, made in a concave shape, with the convex side out. The lamp is rather large, and will hold five points of naphtha—sufficient to feed a bright flame for eighteen hours. Behind the latter is reflector composed of coiled copper wire, no thicker than ordinary sewing thread and very highly polished. This makes what is believed to be the most powerful reflector extant, surpassing even the famous ones used in the light houses on our sea-coasts. Attached to the lamp and running thence to the cab are three rods, one for casting the reflector to the right or left, another to throw it up or down and the third to increase or diminish its brilliancy; each has a little knob on the cab end, all of them being within easy reach of the engineer.

With such a brilliant flame, strong reflector, and so much blue glass surface (the disk is twenty-two inches in diameter) the light upon penetrating the atmosphere without, becomes an electric current of incalculable power; the inventor claiming that with it he could remove obstructions from the track, turn switches, etc., or even prevent trains from colliding, no matter how close they might be, nor how fast they were running.

Mr. Sovan notified Assistant General Superintendent Corning of his invention, when completed, and that gentleman, accompanied by General Master Mechanic Stevens, arrived here from San Francisco yesterday, for the purpose of testing the production, though both ridiculed the idea and regarded Sovan's "Electro-Magnetic Head Light" as a monstrous absurdity.

THE EXPERIMENTS.

Last evening the new apparatus was attached to the yard engine at this place, Mr. Sovan personally superintending the work. By request of the inventor our reporter joined the party. All arrangements being complete, the engine was run backward, west, for a distance of five miles, where a stoppage was made. A large, new, wet tie, weighing at least 70 pounds, was procured and placed on the rails 500 yards in advance of the engine. As he entered the cab Mr. Corning said "Turn her loose, Jack!" Sovan opened the throttle, threw the rays of light to the center of the road-bed about fifty yards ahead, and the iron monster dashed forward, every eye peering eagerly into the murky darkness to note the result. When the blueish-tinted rays reached the obstruction, a very slight tremor was felt on the engine, and wonder of wonders! the

TIE ROSE IN MID-AIR!

To the height of three or four feet, and was borne along in that position for fully 200 yards, when Jack turned one of the knobs to the left, hurling the tie 40 feet from the track out on the prairie! Another halt was made and the tie found. It was split from end to end and broken into three pieces.

Again starting homeward, Mr. Stevens observed that the new light would smash things to atoms by reason of human agency being powerless to control it. "Mr. Stevens, I can pick a baby up from the track, when running forty miles an hour and by gradually reducing the speed, deposit it unharmed on the pilot," was Sovan's characteristic answer. Just then the engine, though averaging 20 miles an hour, checked up quite suddenly, and a glance in front revealed a

LARGE TEXAS STEER

Elevated four feet above earth, forty yards ahead, kicking and bellowing for dear life. Carrying the scared brute in that way for a short distance, the exultant genius remarked: "I'll show you, now, how early this thing can be managed." First casting the light sideways, then downward, Mr. Sovan, in less than one minute's time set the animal on its feet upon terra firma, several yards away from the track, and it scampered off unhurt, but somewhat "stampeded." Arriving in the yard, the party turned a switch wrong and locked it in that position. Backing off for a distance of 300 yards, Sovan turned the light up to a full head and gave the engine all the steam he dared. The very instant the electric current struck the switch the rails flew in the desired direction, despite the usually potent switch lever, and the "pony" dashed on to a sidetrack, at a speed of 20 miles an hour, not over fifty feet

BEHIND A CABOOSE

In which two brakemen were peacefully sleeping? Under ordinary circumstances, a collision would have been inevitable, but as the electricity came in contact with the end of the car, it sent that vehicle booming down the track, and stopped the engine so quick, that Sovan was shot out through one of the cab-windows like a rocket and left a full-length impression of his corpulent body in a pile of soft mud. Messrs. Corning and Stevens left for Ogden this morning, having first assured Mr. Sovan that they would use every effort to secure the speedy adoption of his valuable invention by the Central Pacific Company.

Sovan has already filed a caveat for his "Electro-Magnetic Head Light" in Washington, and contemplates retiring from the "foot-board" shortly, to enjoy the handsome competency which his meritorious invention will undoubtedly bring him.

We shall endeavor to keep our readers posted regarding future experiments with the article, and shall always feel proud to think the man who has displayed such wonderful genius was a Humboldt and fellow-townsmen.

Sacramento Bee: A lusus naturae, in the shape of a combination of pig and other animals has been discovered by Hamilton & Powell. By parentage the thing should be pig, but it has an elephant's trunk, the feet of a dromedary, elephant's ears, skin without hair, except a little goat-like under the chin, and where the eyes should be and in the space between protrudes a substance that looks like a nut of the buckeye. Such a combination of vegetable and different animals was too much for one creature, and the creature only lives or is preserved in alcohol.

An echo from the rural districts—Will blue glass cure hams?

RENO EVENING GAZETTE.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA.

FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1877.

He Must Act.

The New York Times editorially says: "Hayes must let the country know whether he is to be the passive tool of the evil characters that have hitherto led the Administration party, or the positive and unflinching leader of a new Administration policy, which the more liberal of his supporters have claimed that he would be; whether he has courage to fight and strength to overthrow the Blaine-Morton gang or not. He must do so or his Administration will utterly fail. From this alternative he can find no way to escape."

We are passing through a critical moment in our national history. The President is attempting to brook party control, and an anxious people are spectators. The question of the hour is, shall we be deceived in the man; is he strong and can he stem the political current and maintain the policy he has outlined? The opposition developed in the Senate was unexpectedly strong, but "the Blaine-Morton gang" who have had a controlling influence in national affairs had not been duly consulted and must "kick against the pricks." Hayes knew that he received his nomination through a division among the political magnates, and he conceived that the success attending his administration must depend upon his allowing the partisan heroes a full vacation from arduous Cabinet duties. Leading journals throughout the country favor the Cabinet selected by Hayes. The conservative members of the Senate concur in the nominations, and if the Senate does not ratify the nominations President Hayes should inform that body that he has no further communications to make to it at present and that it may adjourn at its earliest pleasure.

The Republican press of this State, except the ultra Appeal, believe that Hayes has chosen a good Cabinet. So it is throughout the Union. None are loud in their praises of the new men, but rather reserve their opinions to see what kind of working material the Cabinet will develop and how Hayes will stand by his nominations. Disappointed politicians are ready to sneer at every move the President makes, while all seem to await the action that he takes to carry into effect his conciliatory policy. He is advised by friends and even enemies, but he must act himself.

Grant came with a large popular vote into office, and at a time when the leading Republicans of the country were expected to control the Administration. The work was to be done by Congress, and Grant could, with ease and propriety, allow himself to be the clay in the Republican potter's hands. Hayes was not his party's choice in the Cincinnati Convention; it was divided and he was the compromise nominee. He stands in a grand position and at a most auspicious time to make a noble record for himself and party. The nation's eyes are turned hopefully upon him. He must act. Will his administration be weak, or one controlled by partisans as the Democrats said during the campaign, or will he make a grand fight to maintain a policy which the people of the United States call for and are anxious to support him in maintaining, provided he will take the lead. The nation demands a strong, judicious administration. Will Hayes rise in the might of a noble, resolute man and declare and enforce the principles of political right, and give character to a just and wise national policy? If he fails to prove himself adequate to the stand which he has taken, we replace the political shackles under which we have so long chafed. His task is a herculean one; can he accomplish his purposes? If so, now is the time and he must act.

Creating Disgust.

The extreme party press on both sides of the political house, are at present engaged in attempts to injure the new Administration. From one side comes the cry that President Hayes has no right to his position, and that his manifest sympathy for the South is only for the purpose of currying favor with those who might prove disagreeable to him in the future. For this, on the other hand, the ultra-Republican element, while professing to favor leniency toward the South, strongly condemns him, and especially so since the appointment of his Cabinet. This is all wrong. And such views and such expressions does but create a feeling of disgust in the mind of every lover of his country—every man who esteems the welfare of his country above that of party. At the present juncture of our national life the extremist is no patriot. No man doubts the capacity of the Southern people for self-government. The years that have passed since the close of the rebellion, have witnessed much misconception of Southern character, while an extreme Republican Administration with its frequent interferences with affairs that did not concern it, has fostered and kept alive a feeling of hostility toward the Government. President Hayes has, as we believe, voiced the desire of all true patriots, whether Republicans or Democrats, in his inaugural address, and seems to be impressed with the importance of making his words good.

The conservative men of both parties, North and South, are those upon whom the continued peace and prosperity of the whole country depend. They have seen that extreme policies in the South were productive of more harm than good, and wish the situation of affairs there changed. Whether Hayes is a statesman, in the strict interpretation of that word, or not, he has the common sense at least to see that a new policy is necessary, and in its execution he should receive the aid of every patriot.

TELEGRAPHIC.

The Senate is having a lively time over the Cabinet nominations. Blaine has stepped into the position of a bold leader of the Republicans in the Senate and objects even to Evarts for Secretary of State. Conkling objects to Schurz and a number of Senators objected to Key. Cameron objected to Sherman. The Democrats in caucus are willing to stand by the nominations if the Administration will stand firmly on the policy of non-intervention in the affairs of South Carolina and Louisiana. The subject is freely discussed, and while dissatisfaction is expressed by many there are not a few who rejoice that there is likely to be a President who will act in many respects independently of party, especially as regards the South and Civil Service.

The President, in response to inquiries to-day, stated that according to his present intention, he will not convene an extra session of Congress for an earlier date than about the first of June. Thompson accepts the appointment of Secretary of the Navy. Wells, Anderson and Marshal Fittkin of Louisiana had an interview with the President, and were informed that their business would receive as early consideration as the public interests would permit.

The President has made his first appointment, outside of Cabinet nominations, that of William Stone to the United States Attorneyship of South Carolina.

A Washington date of the 8th says: In the Senate, upon a lengthy discussion, it was agreed to swear in Lafayette Grover, senator from Oregon, and the oath was administered to him by Vice President Wheeler.

The Times says: In these selections the President has given the country the first distinct indication that he intends to go back on the damnable policy of the Grant regime, relegating the Mortons, Blaines, Chandlers and Camerons to the rear, and bringing the liberal and independent element forward. This means music; it means a smash up of old party combinations that will benefit the country. The Times is satisfied with the prospects.

There was a conference in the library at the Executive Mansion between the President, Evarts, Schurz and Devins. It appears to have been a very serious meeting, and the intimations are, the visitors desired to relieve the President from any embarrassment by reason of their selection for Cabinet positions, but it is understood that the President is determined concerning Cabinet appointment, Civil Service Reform, and Southern matters generally.

The old cabinet will attend the President to-day, and the usual council will be held. Secretary Chandler and Postmaster-General Tyner both in consultation with the President yesterday, the latter concerning some important business regarding postal service.

of whom paid their respects to Mrs. Hayes.

A Panama date of the 26th says: Gilbert Vogel, of the Central America National Troops, defeated guerrillas recently. Nearly one thousand men were killed and many wounded.

A London date of the 6th says: It is reported that the German Postmaster General will shortly propose to the Postal Union the introduction of postal card service for all the countries in the Union, at the rate of one penny.

The Pall Mall Gazette, on General Ignatieff's mission, thinks England cannot consent to an arrangement which would simply fix the time for a general scrimmage over the Turkish territory, unless Europe agreed to give Russia her own way there, when the time came.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

TRAIN DITCHED.—Last night between 7 and 8 o'clock freight train No. 12, on the Sacramento Division of the Central Pacific R. R., met with an accident about a mile and a half east of Alta. While passing through a deep cut a wheel broke, and five cars were thrown from the track. They were badly wrecked, being crushed almost to splinters, and the track also came in for its share of damage. As soon as a wrecking train could be procured from Truckee the work of clearing the track and transferring the merchandise was commenced. The overland and lightning trains, were compelled to remain west of the wreck until this work was completed, and a clear track afforded them on which to "make up time." A passenger on the overland says that the accident furnished passengers of a romantic turn of mind a splendid opportunity of witnessing a light scene in the Sierras, embellished in effect by large bonfires made from the ruins of the demolished cars, and says that the scenic surroundings were picturesque in the extreme. We do not suppose the company appreciate such little romances themselves, but things will fall to pieces once in a while, even if built of iron. When the track was in running order the passengers bade farewell to dreamy reveries and returned to the sleepers to ask the porter how far it was to Reno, the train sped on toward the "Great East," whence came numerous wise men, and at 9:10 this morning they arrived here with good appetites and proceeded to show Chamberlain how a hungry man can eat on state occasions.

No one was injured by the catastrophe, and most of the damage was sustained by the track and rolling stock.

GOVERNOR BRADLEY.—Governor Bradley was in town last evening and looks as healthy and whole-souled as ever. We congratulated him on not being devoured or assassinated while on his recent visit to the Comstock. "Well, my son," says he, "a man who is honest and faithfully discharges what he believes to be his official duty, always commands at least the respects of his people. No doubt there are many immediately interested parties, or mine owners, who think I should have signed the Comstock bill; but the men who talk the vilest are those who do not own themselves—a number of purchased creatures called men because of their physical shape. These fellows use their tongue well but it gives their brains a poor reputation. While I was on the Comstock I was treated with uniform courtesy, save by one man who I do not blame for what he said, since by an informal common law of society there is a class who are not held responsible for being d—n fools. He spoke somewhat insultingly to me but I threatened to cane him. A number of men gathered around us and I believe if the fellow hadn't suddenly left that he would have illy fared in their hands." The Governor goes below for a three weeks' visit. He is a courageous, honest, genial man, and will in every instance discharge his official duties faithfully, and as wisely as any Governor Nevada has ever had.

RIVERSIDE.—The Riverside party last evening was not as well attended as previous soirees, and the instruction which the officers kindly provided for was not taken advantage of. Dancing commenced about 9:30, and was kept up until about 2 o'clock. Among the invited guests present we noticed Gen. R. M. Clarke and wife, Judge S. H. Wright, Miss Parkinson, Judge Davies and Ed. Parkinson, all of Carson; also Mr. D. Gray, of Marysville. The party was a very pleasant and successful one. The next soiree will be held Friday evening, March 23d. Church & Jones will furnish the music for this party.

REPAIRING.—Mr. J. F. Cookes has carpenters at work to-day removing the old Capital restaurant. He intends to put in its place a two story building 25x26. The lower story to be used for a restaurant, and the upper one for lodgers. He will also put a new floor and ceiling to the Capital saloon. When he has made these improvements, he proposes to change the name of the place from the Capital to Commercial Exchange. Cookes is bound to improve his property. Let others emulate his example.

DISTRICT COURT.—The following cases received attention to-day in the District Court:

In the case of J. E. Jones & Co. vs. P. W. L. & F. Co. motion for new trial was denied, and a stay of proceedings granted for five days.

In the case of Mrs. J. Gregory vs. Spence Gregory a divorce was granted. Mrs. A. E. Simpson was appointed administratrix of the estate of J. E. Simpson, deceased, with bonds fixed at $14,000. J. H. Kinkaid, W. Peninger and Wm. Duck were named as appraisers.

Monday, April 2d, was the time set for hearing the report of special administrator in the matter of the estates of J. J. Woodward and Isabel Woodward.

Messrs. E. C. Sessions, Geo. Alt and Rufus King were appointed by the Court as appraisers of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Woodward, deceased.

The appeal to the District Court from the Justice's Court in the case of Wm. Thompson vs. S. F. Hoole was sustained, and the case set for hearing at the April term.

The case of M. Froliche vs. E. F. Reed was dismissed.

The case of H. Vilegran vs. Boverio was continued for the term.

The case of H. H. Beck & Co. vs. A. Reger was then considered, and the Court adjourned for the term.

The next term of the District Court begins Monday, April 2d.

A LITTLE THING.—We saw a small boy this morning with two large paper bundles of something which he had just got at the store. He was walking past the Depot Hotel and looking back at the train, when all of a sudden down went one package, the paper burst of course, and out came the dried peaches. He was helped by someone and started on his way home, but, boy like he soon forgot his troubles and becoming interested in the excitement about him, dropped the package of peaches again. This was too much for the little fellow to endure, and out came the innocent tears, which trickled down his cheeks. He stooped to gather his peaches, and as his young eyes filled with tears, over what was to him a serious misfortune and he almost trembled with fear, lest one of his parents would come along and see what he couldn't help doing, we thought of the time when we were boys and had done similar things, and how grieved we felt about it. A gentleman kindly gathered up his bundles and walked home with him. The tears were quickly dissipated, and he seemed to feel as if a huge burden had suddenly rolled from his young shoulders.

Attention is directed to the local ad. of Mrs. Sheets. She proposes to open a select school for small boys and girls. She has had experience in teaching and can assure those who will become her patrons that she will be able to satisfactorily advance her pupils. See card for particulars.

F. & A. M.—A called communication of Reno Lodge No. 13, F. & A. M., will be held on Saturday, March 10th, 1877, for work in the third degree. All members and sojourning brethren in good standing are requested to attend. By order of the W. M.

Five fresh Canadian Frenchmen were staged this morning by Mr. Pollard for Indian Valley, 90 miles away. They had an innocent look, but before the three days of staging passes they will appear like the fragments of a spell of sickness.

Good cigars, 5 for 25 cents, at Yankee Dodge's. 3-7

Several boys were seen this afternoon with bats and clubs, supposed to be on their way to a game of base ball, who will probably "bull-dose" the ball and mayhap some windows and persons in the vicinity of the playground.

A special coach was attached to the Eastward bound overland train this morning. It contained several officers and their friends of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

WINNER.—Bodine won the big race which came off over the Agricultural Course at Sacramento this afternoon, beating Occident three straight heats; time 2:24, 2:23, and 2:25.

WANTED.—A competent woman desires a situation to do chamber work or to serve in the dining room of a hotel. Apply at this office. 3-21

Jottings.

W. H. Chamberlain and Mr. Alexander went to Sacramento last night. They attended the great race between Occident and Bodine, which came off this afternoon over the Sacramento race course. I. K. Marshal and T. K. Hymers were also present.

The lunch room at the Depot Hotel was opened to the public again last evening.

A boy fell on to a piece of glass to-day, and, strange to relate, though it cut a terrible gash in his hand, there was no pain experienced by him, and in a few minutes time the wound had completely healed. Cause why—it was a piece of blue glass.

They say it is no trick at all to catch trout nowadays—if you use the right kind of worms and get up early enough to catch the worms.

The Plute don't sleep as well as he did earlier in the winter. The weather is growing to warm to make the nights interesting.

Did you win any money on the big race?

Another infliction for California—eight emigrant coaches filled with the festive passed west this afternoon.

Two small bands of poor beef cattle were driven through our streets to-day.

For some reason the ordinance of baptism was not administered last evening at the Baptist Church. The candidates will probably be immersed next Sunday evening.

Good cigars, 5 for 25 cents, at Yankee Dodge's. 3-7

The San Francisco Post and Bulletin of last evening devote a large portion of their space to the publication of an extensive list of the names of parties who are alleged to have voted illegally at the recent Presidential election in that city, together with their nativities and places of residence. Exhibit "G" contains the names of 2,722 persons "not entitled to vote, according to returns of the canvassers, some on account of not having lived in the state and city the required length of time, some as never having lived at the residence given in the affidavit—if so, having moved away or died prior to the election—others under age." A number of prominent citizens' names appear on the roll.

SELECT SCHOOL.—Mrs. L. H. Sheets is prepared to give instruction to children between four and ten years of age, at her residence, (near that of Dr. Sheets). Terms, $3.00 per month. Mrs. Sheets having recently taught in the primary department at Mrs. Perry's Seminary, Sacramento, feels confident that she can render entire satisfaction to the patrons of her school. Term opens March 12, 1877. 3-21

SHAVING PARLORS.—Messrs. Morris & Franklin take this method of announcing to their friends and the public in general, that they have opened a new and elegant hair dressing room, on Virginia street, fronting Bidden's photograph gallery. Everything is new, neat and clean, including the very latest improved Rochester Barber Chairs, the only ones to be found in Reno. Everything necessary to be had to insure the comfort and pleasure of customers have been provided. Shaving, Hair Cutting, Shampooing and Dyeing done in a practical and workmanlike manner. All kinds of Hair Trimmers and Hair Restoratives always on hand. Ladies and children's hair cutting and shampooing a specialty. MARK H. MORRIS. H. H. FRANKLINFIELD. 1-15

AT THE OLD STAND.—Pat Keliber has sold the Branch Saddle Rock and returned to the Saddle Rock original, next to the International hotel. This change has been made solely because Pat found himself unable to tend to both places with sufficient care. He prides himself upon his close attention to business and the large number of patrons which he has gained thereby. He now asks a continuance of past favors at the Saddle Rock and promises to deserve them more than ever. Old patrons only need to know the location while new comers are referred to the Saddle Rock for trial. Any man who is not satisfied will go free of charge. Pat points with pride to the number of fat men now roaming our streets, and confesses that his famous Eastern oysters and made dinners have done the work. Call at the Saddle Rock and you may be assured of good treatment and the best which the market affords.
